

Front Burner

By FLORENCE FABRICANT APRIL 10, 2017

Melissa Falcon teaches a monthly class on flower arrangements at Eli's Market in Manhattan.

Michelle V. Agins/The New York Times

That springtime bouquet, whether assembled from purchased blooms or flowers gathered in the garden, will look better and last longer when arranged with expertise. Learn how at a class taught on the third Friday of each month by Melissa Falcon, the longtime florist at Eli Zabar's markets. Students will take home their handiwork: Eli's Flower School, April 21, May 19 and June 16, 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., $95 including Champagne, Eli's Market, 1411 Third Avenue (80th Street), 212-717-8100, elizabar.com.